MR. BRASHEAR HOME.

The Pittsburg Astronomer Returns From His Great Trip West.

OBSERVING THE SOLAR ECLIPSE. The Indians and Chinese Were Afraid of the Telescope.

BET VIEWS AT A HEIGHT OF 6,000 FEET Prof. John A. Brashear, the well-known astronomer and manufacturer of astronomical instruments, who went to the Pacific coast to make an observation of the recent solar eclipse, returned home Tuesday morning-earlier than he had intended, as Mrs. Brashear is quite ill. He was seen at his home in Allegheny yesterday by a Dis-PATCH reporter, and asked for an account of his interesting trip. The professor said: I left Pittsburg December 21, went first to Denver where I had some interviews with the Professors and others connected with the Dener University in regard to some astronomical instruments for them, some of which I am engaged in constructing. From Denver I went to Salt Lake City, where I had some pleasant interviews with the friends of Orson Pratt, the deceased astronomer and mathematician of the Mormon Church. The new temple of the Mormons is covered with the hieroglyphics of astronomy which were explained to me by some of the disciples of the Mormon Church. From there I went to Winnenucca, Nev. in company with Dr. Elkin, of Yale College; Mr. Henry Phipps, of Pittsburg; Prof. Howe, of Denver, and a number of gentlemen interested in making observations of the solar eclipse. Preparations had been made for our party by Colonel Maxson. A camp had been located and everything arranged for observing the eclipse. After the instruments were made ready for the ob-servation, part of the afternoon and evening the day preceding the eclipse the good people of Winnemucca, including the Indians and

Chinese, were invited to make some observa-THE INDIANS WERE VERY LOTH to look into the telescope, for fear it would explode and cause their destruction, until Cap-tain Dovie John, the chief of the Piutes, was induced to look into the instrument by the edi-tor of the Silver State. He was so amused and interested that the Indians came up one by one, and, with wondering eyes, gazed until they all seemed to be satisfied. I then tried to induce some of the Indian boys to have a look, but could not bribe them to do so even by the offer of money. The chief of the Piutes picked one of them up, and tried to force him to look into the telescope. The boy kicked and screamed with such violence that the chief was glad to let go of the young rascal.

The Chinese refused to look in, from another consideration. They feared they would have to pay for it. One fellow remarked "Melican an no sabe me. He sabe me 2 bits if I look there." Two bits is the Western phrase for cents. I found among the inhabitants of the place

I found among the inhabitants of the place some very intelligent people who were quite well posted on scientific topics. They treated the eclipse party with all the kindness and consideration possible. In fact, from the proprietor of the hotel to the heads of the rall-road departments, we received all the assistance they could possibly give us.

The day of the eclipse dawned with a magnificent sky such as we never see in the East. Had every astronomer sent out his wishes to old "Probs," the latter could have given us no better day for the observation of the eclipse. 1-Our camp was located about a mile and a half from the center of the town, and I must say it to the credit of the people of Winnemucca that not one of them came near the camp to bother the observers during the time of the totality.

As the time of totality approached every observer was at his nost, and so far as I know everyone was satisfied with the work accomplished. Prof. Davidson had charge of the photographic work. Mr. Blinn and his assistant made observations of the contacts, as did also Prof. Howe and Coloniel Maxson. Two gentlemen connected with the United States Survey, whose names I cannot recall, made most excellent observations of the curious phenomena of

THE DIFFRACTION WAVES, ving previously spread upon the ground a large square of white muslin for the purpose of observing this interesting, but not yet understood, phenomena. Several artists were among the party. One of them, a German, was one of the most rapid delineators I ever met. His sketch corresponds with the best photographs taken. My own work was confined to taking observations of the first and last contact, and to sketching by a method devised by myself a sortion of the finer filaments of the South Poar corona, and whatever solar frames might be near the south pole of the sun. Though not an | Keil and others, from $30 upward. Call expert, I practiced sketching frost crystals, and inspect the above, fine new stools and covers included. The first view of the totality of the total phase of the eclipse was so grand and so much beyond my highest concention of what it would be that I was tempted to drop pencil and sketch plate and look only at the glorious spectacle presented. Indeed it was once said of Prof. Peters, the noted professor of Clinton, that after observing one solar eclipse, confining himself to a special work, he was asked what instruments he would use at the next solar celipse. He at once replied: "A pillow." meaning that he would simply lie down and look at it. I was pleased to find alterward that my results agreed closely with the photographs, showing some inner flaments not really shown on the photographs, being apparently burned out by over exposure.

Dr. Elkin, of Yale College Observatory, and Mr. Austin, of the Nautical Alimanac Office, at Washington, D. C., made observations on the general structure of the corona. The reported discovery of two comets by Dr. Elkin was not true, but came out of a pleasant remark of the Doctor's, who is one of the most modest men I ever met. After the observations were ended astronomers got together, compared notes, and the next day the entire party left for points The first view of the totality of the total

VISITING THE COMSTOCK LODE. The Pittsburg folk, with Dr. Elkin and Mr. Austin, went to Virginia City, and visited the great Comstock silver mines, which were very interesting to them. We descended to a depth of 1,300 feet below the surface, and explored the various windings of that wonderful place. We brought away a number of excellent specimens

From there we went to 'Frisco, where the astronomical parties had all congregated from the different parts of the United States, and it is with pleasure I say that the amateur astronomers and photographers of San Francisco did everything in their power to make our stay everything in their power to make our stay pleasant.

Mr. Henry Phipps, Jr., gave a most pleasant dinner to the visiting and local astronomers at the Palace Hotel, where we had the pleasure of comparing notes, and learned that every party in the whole line of totality had met with satisfactory results. The reports of the eclipse will be sent to the various observatories, most of them perhaps going to the Lick Observatory, on Mt. Hamilton.

The Amateur Photographers' Society of the Pacific coast secured a large number of very valuable photographs, which will be sent to this observatory. Mr. Charles Burkhalter, of Oakland, Cal., had charge of the party, and each photographer so thoroughly drilled himself in the work that few hitches occurred. Some photographs secured by Mr. Burkhalter with a large reflecting telescope are among the finest eclipse photographs ever secured. Prof. Pickering also did some magnificent photograph work with instruments especially prepared. The photograph work of the eclipse will surpass anything ever done in this line before.

Atter a brief but delighted visit to Monterey.

After a brief but delighted visit to Monterey After a brief but delighted visit to Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Jose, we visited the Lick Observatory, where we met many old-time friends and astronomers. Although the Lick observers count on very few winter nights as good for observing, the first night we were there turned out to be very fine, indeed. We had most superb views of celestial objects through the 30-inch telescope. Saturn, with its magnificent appendage of rings and retime of moons, was seen as perhaps no human eye has ever seen it, except in this great telescope.

THE COMPANION SIRIUS, now so difficult an object in ordinary telescopes, was seen with case, and although the moon was full I had no difficulty in seeing the seventh star in the trapezium of Orion, never before seen in any other telescope. No observations were made upon the moon, although this was the night when it was eclipsed, as the time was fully occupied making other observations. Prof. Holden and his spendid corps of assistants and co-workers did everything in their power

Los Angeles and make a trip to Wilson's Peak, Los Angeles and make a tripto Wilson's Peak, we accepted the invitation. Although Prot. Pickering, Mr. Clark and others had made the ascent of the peak before we arrived there, in company with Mr. Vandevort, a former Pittsburger, I made the ascent of the mountain, which is 6,000 feet high, and had perhaps the most splendid view I have ever had of the many mountain peaks I have ascended. St. Nicholas Island in the Pacific Ocean, certainly 100 miles from my point or observation, was 100 miles from my point or observation, wi clearly visible, and the purity of the upper sky

SURPASSED ANYTHING I had ever seen. The mountain is certainly eminently fitted for the best astronomical observation. While it will be most certainly more difficult to construct a road to the top of the nountain than to the top of Mount Hamilton there will be very much less work to do at the summit. A 40-inch telescope is proposed for this site, and Prof. Pickering has suggested a this site, and Prof. Pickering has suggested a 24-inch photographer's telescope with which it is expected the most perfected chart of the skies will be obtained, and in very much less time than by the methods proposed at the Paris Conference of Astronomers. At a banquet given by the citizens of Pasadena on the evening after the day of my ascent to the top of the mountain, great interest was manifested in the project, and there is likely to be placed on the summit of Mount Wilson an observatory caula to that on Mount Hamilton in its equipment.

It is certainly true that the Pacific coast has a marvelously pure sky for astronomical observations on these mountain peaks during the summer. We may look to much of the future advance in astronomical research from that part of our great country. I met many pleasant geutlemen from the East in that section of the country. When I left it was with a feeling of kindness toward the good people of the Pacific coast.

CROWS REARRESTED. Detective Allen, of This City, Brought Him

Back From Cleveland. Detective Allen, of the Gilkinson Detec tive Agency, arrived in the city last night from Cleveland, having in charge B. F. Crows, an escaped alleged forger, who has been wanted here for the past three months, Crows, it will be remembered, was the real estate agent doing business on Federal real estate agent doing business on Federal street, near Lacock, Allegheny City. He got into some trouble with James L. Orr, from whom he purchased the business, and was charged by Mr. Orr with forging his name to the amount of about $1,700. He was arrested and locked up to await trial.

One day, while being taken from the jail to the Sheriff's office to give an alimony bond for his wife. Crows gave the deputy sheriff the slip and in the crowd got away.

The police of this city made efforts to find him, but they were unsuccessful. The mat-him, but they were unsuccessful. The mat-ter was placed in the hands of the Gilkinson agency, and Detective Allen was assigned to work it up. The officer got a clew, and finally located his man in Cleveland. Going there he found him working in a sawmill and arrested him. Crows made a slight effort to escape, but the detective was too quick for him, and managed to get him away. He was locked up in the jail, and will now have two charges to answer.

MUST COME DOWN.

The B. & O. Office Building Condemned a Unsafe by the Inspector. Building Inspector Frank spent Tuesday night in examining the building, corner Wood street and Fifth avenue, in which the Baltimore and Ohio ticket and freight offices are located. The examination was made on the petition of two citizens, and Friday has been set for an appeal. The inspector condemned the building as unsafe, and vesterday Division Passenger Agent E. D. Smith and J. D. Zimmerman, of the United States Express, spent the day on the avenue looking for new offices. The new Baltimore and Ohio depot will be ready in six weeks, and the freight offices will be located there. will be located there.

The impression seems to prevail that if the corner building is removed that all the structures between Fifth avenue and Diamond street, on Wood street, will have to
